Purely Business!

The columns of a newspaper represent a cash value. No publisher can afford to give advertising "notions" free any more than a merchant can over his counter free gifts of dry goods or shoes. A newspaper is a legitimate business concern. Its columns are its stock in trade, and advertisements should be paid for, no matter in what part of the paper they appear.

The Continued Calls

Upon the Ladies for free notices have become so burdensome that we are forced to publish the following terms:

For Notices of Suppers, excursions, fairs, or other public entertainments where a fee is charged, and for ordinary notices, reductions of respect, &c., the Ladies will charge five cents a line, and hereafter this will be the invariable rule. This, however, does not include notices of Lodge meetings or Church services, which must not exceed ten lines.

Avoidance of Disputes.

Misunderstandings are unpleasant. The rate for Business Local in this Ledger is 10 cents a line for the first insertion and 5 cents a line for subsequent insertions. A customer orders a five-line local inserted in the paper. "I'll tell you when to take it out," he says to the bookkeeper. But he forgets all about it. The notice runs for two months—three times the bill is $15.25. When he finds it, he says, "a 'kiss' and a controversy, followed probably by an icy frown. Let's obviate the trouble, no 'hot' frowns will be accepted hereafter. Let's have a definite agreement at the outset and the termination will be pleasant all around."

✓ All matter for publication must be handed in before 9 o'clock in the morning of each day.

✓ If you have friends visiting you, or if you are going away on a visit, please drop us a note to that effect.

Interesting Items That Every Man in Mayville Should Read.

The Women's Committee of the Y. M. C. A. will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Association parlors. Every member of the committee will please be present, as very important business must be attended to.

Last Wednesday afternoon the Board of Directors met at the rooms and, after the presentation of reports and election of several new members, the following gentlemen were chosen as delegates to the sixteenth annual State Convention of Kentucky Y. M. C. A. Associations, to be held at Frankfort beginning next Thursday: J. B. Orr, Jr., D. N. House, H. E. Gabb, Rev. F. W. Harrop, Rev. J. P. Trotter, Alex. McFarlane, John L. Scott, J. E. Confield. Since the Directors met Mr. A. D. Cole has been added to the list of delegates, and if there are any others who wish to attend they are requested to consult with the local Secretary who will provide the necessary credentials.

The great desirability of holding the State Convention here in Mayville in February, 1898, was thoroughly discussed, and by a unanimous vote the Directors decided to invite the gathering to this place. The Women's Committee has also voted to unite with the Board of Directors in extending this invitation, and as the Convention has not been held in this section of the state for several years there is a strong probability of the invitation being accepted by the State Executive Committee. Other Associations will also ask for the Convention.

THE RECENT FORGERY.

Additional Particulars About the Unfortunate Young Man Now in Jail.

Colonel W. H. McCall of The Tribune and Dr. A. D. Campbell of Portsmouth were here Saturday afternoon to see Dr. S. T. McClung, the unfortunate young man who is confined in jail on the charge of forgery.

Both gentlemen spoke in highest terms of the young man's previous life and of his family connections, and they cannot account for the act which caused his trouble.

The details of the transaction were so fully given in Saturday's LEDGER that nothing remains to be added to that connection; but yesterday's Portsmouth Tribune gives some particulars as to Dr. McClung:

"When Dr. Campbell and The Tribune called upon him at the Jail he seemed very much agitated, and, in fact, the officers said he had been so much affected that he was completely unnerved, and his distress of mind excited the sympathy of all who saw him. It was plain that it was his first offense and he deeply felt his guilt."

"Dr. Campbell took a very touching letter from Mrs. McClung and delivered it to him, in which that noble quality of true womanhood shone forth with rare luster, and which must have given him much courage."

"He promised to write soon, and in the meantime his friends will try to secure bail."

"The whole affair is most unfortunate and painfully surprising to his friends. He was married only a few months since to a popular Louisville lady, and his domestic life had been one of unalloyed pleasure."

"Dr. Campbell, who has known him intimately for years, could hardly realize how the young man could get the consent of his mind to commit criminal act, for he regarded him as a model young man."

TOUCHING INCIDENT.

Prisoner's Last Words to Chaplain Shepard of the Frankfort Pen.

A sad story is told by Penitentiary Chaplain Shepard, formerly of this city, of the death of James Plunkett, a Penitentiary county prisoner who died last week.

Plunkett had been in prison but a short time, and was taken violently ill.

He lay hopelessly sick in the hospital, and as the days passed grew worse.

Chaplain Shepard called to see him each day and noticed him sinking, and when satisfied he would not recover went to the Prison Physician, Dr. Stewart, and asked how long Plunkett was for this world.

He found that he would not last through the night.

The Chaplain went at once to the bedside of Plunkett and told him he was going to die, and asked if there was any message he would like to leave.

The prisoner looked up, and with his last breath told the good prison official that he was innocent of the charge for which he was sent there and to say so to his friends.

Within two minutes he was dead!

Plunkett was sent up on the charge of having stolen cattle.

JOHN MARRS,

Of Lexington, Attempts to Kill
His Entire Family.

He Slew His Four-Year-Old Son, Shot
His Sister and Daughter.

And Then Took His Own Life. His Wife
May Die of Poisoning. He Had Previously Been an Inmate of the Kentucky Lunatic Asylum.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 15.—The bloodiest domestic tragedy that ever occurred in Lexington was enacted at 7:45 o'clock Saturday morning, when John Marrs killed his four-year-old son John, shot his 14-year-old daughter Helen, tried to kill his sister Ida and then killed himself.

Marrs was about 40 years old, and had been a member of the firm of M. Kaufman & Co., clothiers, for years. He was prominent in building association circles, owning a great deal of real estate, and was considered one of the safest and most promising of Lexington's younger business men.

When the arising bell rang Saturday morning at his residence 129 South Upper street, Mrs. Marrs, who slept with her daughter Helen in a room occupied by her husband, awoke on her wrapper and went down into the kitchen to send a servant girl up with warm water for her husband.

He was sleeping in another bed with his son, John, and did not awake when the bell rang. When the servant went to the room Marrs started up with such a peculiar expression on his face that she hastily set the water down and left the room.

When she was half way down the stairs she heard a pistol shot. She continued to the kitchen and told her mistress that something was the matter upstairs. Mrs. Marrs and her sister-in-law, Miss Ida Marrs, who lived in the public schools, ran up to the room. They heard shots as they were going up. Mrs. Marrs fell to the floor and the steps, just as Helen ran out of the room and fell.

Miss Ida ran into the room where she saw her brother flourishing a pistol. He struck her over the right eye with the weapon, cutting a long gash and knocking her back into the hall. As she fell he fired at her, but the bullet flew wide. Marrs slammed the door.

Neighbors rushed in and forced the door, when a horrible sight met their gaze. Lying on the floor, with his feet under the bed and his head toward the door that opened into an adjoining room, was Marrs in an extraordinary position. His throat was cut from ear to ear, both jugular veins and the windpipe being severed.

The head was barely hanging to the body. Near his left hand was a large razor covered with blood. On the floor was a large, old-fashioned revolver with four empty chambers. On the bed was the boy, naked, with blood on his face, a bullet hole in the center of his forehead, and his throat was cut from ear to ear. Three pieces of flesh were cut from his right cheek.

Miss Ida Marrs' wounds are not dangerous, but she was badly protected from the shock. Mrs. Marrs is in a precarious condition from nervous prostration. About 10 years ago John Marrs showed signs of insanity and was incarcerated in the Eastern Kentucky lunatic asylum. He was discharged as cured after six months and returned to business in the best of health and spirits and made money rapidly for several years.

On account of depression in business his affairs of late have not been in a prosperous condition. He was taken violently ill about a month ago with a peculiar headache and remained at home three weeks. His friend, Moses Kaufman, called to see him several times this week and saw evidences of mental trouble and had intended to take him to a doctor Saturday and have him treated.

Marrs comes from one of Kentucky's oldest and best families. His father, John Marrs, was for many years treasurer of the city of Lexington. The family has always stood high in business and social circles.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 15.—The funeral of John W. Marrs and his boy, John, Jr., took place at the city and county Christian church at 3 o'clock Sunday morning. The church was packed with fully 1,000 people. As many more were on the outside of the building, blocking the streets for squares. Father and son were buried in the same grave.

CHAMPION CORBETT.

Dr. A. P. Brian, the Well-Known San Francisco Physician, Says He Is the Most Perfect Specimen of Physical Manhood in the World.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 15.—After a thorough examination of Champion Corbett, made by Dr. A. P. Brian, the well-known physician, the certificate which follows:

For several days past Champion has been insisting that Corbett should be subjected to a thorough examination as to his physical condition. This should be a complete and accurate one, and I am of the opinion that James Corbett is the most perfect specimen of physical manhood, in my opinion, in the world today. I saw him in his fight with Sharkey and must say that his condition is absolutely different at the present time from that it was at that occasion.

After a thorough examination, I have failed to find a single flaw in his anatomy. The chest is expansive to a remarkable degree, showing the elasticity and firmness of the muscles. The capacity of the lungs indicates great endurance and especially when fortified by the fact that he has a perfect heart, the sound of which, as heard clearly and distinctly over every portion of the praecordial region.

When the arising bell rang Saturday morning at his residence 129 South Upper street, Mrs. Marrs, who slept with her daughter Helen in a room occupied by her husband, awoke on her wrapper and went down into the kitchen to send a servant girl up with warm water for her husband.
